

American National Election Studies (ANES)

American National Election Studies (ANES) is the premier survey covering voting, public opinion, and political participation in the United States, and has been conducted every 4 years since 1948. For 2016, Westat will be conducting the face-to-face component with respondents across the nation. At each sampled address, a household screener will determine if someone is eligible. Then each eligible respondent will complete a CAPI pre-election questionnaire in the period before Election Day; a post-election questionnaire will last several weeks immediately following Election Day.

The ANES field interviewer will locate, obtain cooperation from, screen, and interview selected respondents in their homes. ANES is recruiting 120 skilled Field Interviewers to start August 25, 2016, through January 2017.

Please explore our currently available positions by clicking the “Apply Now” button on the main page of this site and searching for our positions using the keyword ANES.